POISON LIQUOR'S DEATH TOLL WAS SEVENTEEN TODAY

Federal Officials to Take a Hand in Peoria Investigation

Peoria, Ill., Mar. 6—(AP)—More names appeared on the poison liquor death list today, and the total stood at 17.

Two men and their wives are held for murder. It is charged they furnished the poison drink. Another man is charged with manslaughter. There were three deaths in Galesburg which officials were certain were due to poison liquor, but because the bodies had been embalmed before an examination could be made, the coroner was unwilling to include them among the victims.

The federal prohibition department has entered the investigation in an effort to trace the poison to its source. Morris Mansfield, one of those held under a murder charge, said he obtained his liquor supply from a Chicago dealer, whom he refused to name.

Partly Wood Alcohol
The beverage that resulted in the deaths, the blinding of several persons and the serious illness of dozens more, contained 15 per cent wood alcohol, according to a chemist's report. The industrial alcohol which was used appeared to have been poorly redistilled, the report said.

The murder charges against Mansfield, his wife, and G. O. Guffin and his wife were based on only one death, that of Clarence Hoppe, Saturday night.

John Cox of Vermont, Ill., is held on the manslaughter charge. It was he, the charges state, who sold liquor which is blamed for three deaths.

U. S. Official Acts.
George H. Hurlbut, acting prohibition administrator in Chicago, believes unadulterated wood alcohol may have been used in at least some of the liquor.

"There is only one government formula containing more than 10 per cent of wood alcohol poisoning," he said, "and it becomes our problem to find out whether this formula is involved."

Knox County officials at Galesburg have undertaken an investigation of the liquor situation there. An inquest probably will be held into the death of D. J. Trout, 28 years old, which occurred yesterday following a party. Two other men, blinded presumably by poison liquor, are to be questioned by Galesburg police.

SPREADS TO GALESBURG

Galesburg, Ill., Mar. 6—(AP)—Autopsies are to be performed today by coroners' officers here over three deaths in an effort to determine whether the men died from poison liquor. D. J. Trout, 28, William J. Hall, 50, and Charles Hadravsky, 55, are the three whose deaths are to be investigated.

The bodies have already been embalmed, making the determination of the cause of death, if due to liquor poisoning, difficult, according to coroner George S. Bower.

Soft drink parlors here were all closed today as a result of police action against such places. The officers have been seeking the source of the alleged poison booze that is said to have killed the three men and blinded others. Mary Vaughn and Ernie Tiffany are suffering serious blindness and are under physicians' care.

It was learned today that the trail of poison liquor had reached to Knox College, where two young men are said to be temporarily blinded as a result of imbibing the poison hooch Saturday. One of the boys has gone to his home while the other is recovering at his fraternity house.

The hooch that is held responsible for the deaths is said to have come from Peoria. It sold for $3.50 a gallon here Saturday against the regular price of $16 a gallon.

Recover Some Loot from Fulfs' Store
Chief J. D. Van Bibber today had been successful in locating some of the articles stolen from the Fulfs Brothers confectionery store on North Galena avenue in two robberies which occurred about the first of the year. It was reported at the police station that several persons' names had been drawn into the investigation, who had knowledge of the location of the loot stolen from the store, and who for weeks have failed to report this information to the police.

A 22 caliber target pistol, stolen in one of the robberies, was recovered last evening, and it was hinted that a number of arrests might result before night. It was also intimated that the grand jury would be called upon to conduct an investigation in the case at the April term of the Circuit Court and that several persons, who had closely guarded information concerning the robberies and the location of the loot, might be called before that body to explain.

TWO CLEVELAND OFFICERS SHOT BY CAR THIEVES

One Killed in Making Response to Call Early Today

Cleveland, March 6—(AP)—Patrolman Carl Sherman was killed and Sergeant Martin E. Hoffman was shot through the chest today when they attempted to stop two thieves from stripping an automobile.

The two officers received a call at a west side precinct station that two men were stripping an automobile at a lonely spot and left to apprehend the thieves.

As they drove up and stepped out of their own car, the two robbers opened fire before the officers had a chance to draw their guns. Anthony Blandy, a bus driver, found them later, Sherman dead and Hoffman lying on his side.

The slayers escaped in their automobile, which they had stolen.

FOUNDER BUICK MOTOR CAR CO. DIES, POOR MAN

Spent Fortune in Developing "Horseless Carriage"

Florida Authorities at Sea in Effort to Unfold Death Details

Miami, Fla., Mar. 6—(AP)—David D. Buick, founder of the Buick Automobile Company, now a unit of the General Motors Corporation, died of cancer in Harper hospital here last night. Has 74 years old.

Mr. Buick, who was known as one of the pioneers of the automobile industry, died in comparative poverty. For the past two years he had held an instructorship in the Detroit School of Trades.

In 1901 Mr. Buick was a wealthy man, a manufacturer of plumbing fixtures who had just sold his plant for $100,000 to indulge in his dream of a "horseless carriage." He had been experimenting with automobiles for several years.

During the next two years he used his entire fortune in a series of "horseless carriages," none of which was a success. He was in debt when he finally developed a car he was convinced was practicable. By driving it from Detroit to Flint, 68 miles, he convinced J. H. Whitney, president of the Flint Wagon Works of the motor car's possibilities and Whitney became his financial backer and partner.

COOLIDGE ARE SETTLING DOWN TO QUIET LIVES

May Purchase an Estate Near Northampton for Their Home

Northampton, Mass., Mar. 6—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge settled down contentedly today to the quiet ways of his New England neighbors.

Yesterday was a day of home-coming of an enthusiastic reception from his fellow townsmen and of poking about his half of the frame double-house on Massasoit Street, to see that everything was as it should be. But today there was time for throwing himself thoroughly into the role to which, even while sitting in the highest office the nation could offer, he frequently looked forward—that of a plain, private citizen.

For Mrs. Coolidge there were housewifery duties which required attention.

Renew Friendships.

Then, too, there were old friendships to be renewed, a visit to be made to her mother, who is seriously ill at the Cooley Dickinson Hospital. Odd jobs to be done about the house appealed to Mr. Coolidge. Getting out a few tools and attending to the little repairs that constantly are necessary in one's own home has always been a great source of pleasure to him. Only at infrequent intervals was he able, as Chief Executive, to indulge in this sort of thing. In an executive mansion, there are too many servants.

Mr. Coolidge, as always, anxious about his health, joined Mrs. Coolidge in looking for an opportunity for a brisk walk, which he has termed the most beneficial form of exercise. Moreover his desk in the law office that throughout his years in high office still bore his name, remained to be visited.

May Buy Estate.

Northampton people are giving considerable credence to a report that the Coolidges are soon to desert the double-house on Massasoit Street for a large roomy estate known as "The Beeches." The property is owned by M. L. Conney, a former Northampton mill superintendent, and now is in the hands of an agent. Mr. Coolidge, the report runs, has approached Conney's representative with a view to purchasing the place. It contains tennis courts, a swimming pool and a garage. Beautiful walks wind through its eight acres and it gives a commanding view of the Connecticut valley.

They had dinner at home, prepared by their one servant, and then spent the evening reading and chatting until a little after 10 o'clock, when they retired.

Lindbergh Enjoys Absence from News

Mexico City, Mar. 6—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is enjoying the relative obscurity into which the revolution has thrown him.

Since the beginning of the rebellion Sunday newspapermen here have been too busy with news of the revolt to do much more than keep a wary eye on him to be sure he does not depart suddenly or elope with his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow.

While the revolt has given him a breathing spell he is known, nevertheless, to be impatient to get back to the United States. Rail communication with the states is cut off, while at Vaucluse field it is said reports on his aeroplane are still proceeding.

SOCIAL HOSTESS OF RICH BROKER FOUND MURDERED

Florida Authorities at Sea in Effort to Unfold Death Details

Miami, Fla., Mar. 6—(AP)—After questioning witnesses for nearly three hours today, Richard H. Hunt, Assistant State's Attorney, announced the state was satisfied the death of Mrs. Nora Wilson, 40, of Lancaster, Pa., who was shot to death in her room in a downtown hotel Sunday, was suicide. No further official inquiry will be made, he added.

Search for the slayer of Mrs. Nora Wilson, 40-year-old housekeeper and for seven years social hostess and chaperon in the employ of Guy Loomis, wealthy New York investment broker, was taken up today by representatives of the State's Attorney of Dade County, Florida.

Four witnesses were on hand today as the state began its attempt to reconstruct the picture of the woman's death some time Saturday. They were Loomis, who testified yesterday that the woman had often threatened to take his life and hers; Miss Margaret Cramer, New York show girl, and the captain and one member of the crew of the Loomis' yacht Nadine.

Seek Two Others

Two other persons were sought by officials to tell of their relations with the woman since she returned from a Cuban trip recently with Loomis, Miss Cramer and others. The two were known to officials only as "Race Horse Charlie" and "Prisco Legs," alleged gamblers.

A coroner's jury yesterday held unknown persons responsible for the killing of Mrs. Wilson. Blanket warrants charging murder were issued last night.

Search for valuables belonging to Mrs. Wilson revealed but $1.80 in her purse, $90 in the hotel safe and a small amount of jewelry. The state's investigation today was expected to be started from the angle that Mrs. Wilson was killed by an unidentified man who escorted her to her hotel at 2 o'clock Saturday morning, and who is believed to have followed her to her room after she left him in the lobby.

Sheriff Seeks Man With Shot in Back

Sheriff Miller today was attempting to locate a man of medium build and roughly dressed, whose back from the waist to the neck, is well filled with shot. Reports reaching the sheriff's office indicated that a strange man, who was discovered wandering about the buildings on a farm south and east of Dixon, was shot Saturday night about 10 o'clock by the tenant, who had been losing large amounts of ear corn from the crib.

Saturday night the farmer heard a noise in the barn yard which indicated to him that a stranger was prowling about the buildings. Leaving his bed, he dressed hurriedly and went out into the barn yard armed with a repeating shot gun.

The stranger was seen running from one building to another and paid no attention to the farmer's orders to halt. Several shots were fired by the farmer and he is positive that one of the shots took effect as the stranger was climbing over a fence in an attempt to make his escape. The man was seen to fall off the fence, and regaining his feet, staggered away.

Bridge Builders to Arrive Within Week

The Widell Construction Company of Mankato, Minn., which was awarded the contract for the construction of the new Peoria avenue bridge, will start work the first of next week, according to word received at the office of County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake this morning. The letter stated that four car loads of equipment had been shipped from Mankato and five more would follow in a few days. Barring transit delays, it was expected that the nine cars would reach Dixon before the close of next week.

The full crew of workmen who will come from the company's headquarters at Mankato are expected to be in Dixon Monday. The first work, it is expected, will be the establishment of a material and equipment yard and the building of an office structure. As soon as the water recedes, the work of building the coffer dams for the laying of the piers will start and the work is to be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Chicago, Mar. 6—(AP)—A small bomb exploded early this morning in front of a west-side newspaper distributing agency. Damage, mostly broken windows, was estimated at $100. Several families were aroused but no one was injured.

RAILWAY BRIDGE THREATENED BY ICE JAM AT GALT

Force of Men Working Night and Day to Save Structure

Alarmed by the possibility of the temporary railway bridges of the Chicago and NorthWestern railroad at Galt being carried out by an ice gorge, Roadmaster P. J. McAndrew has had a force of men on the scene, night and day since Sunday in an effort to keep the channel open. A supply of explosive is kept on hand at the bridge and experienced handlers of dynamite were busy all day Monday and Tuesday, attacking the ice jams formed in the stream above the bridge. The channel below the bridge is practically clear of ice. Measurements of the big cakes of ice show them to be of an average thickness of about 22 inches.

Work on the construction of the temporary bridges over the Elkhorn creek was started in January by the railroad, it being proposed to use them for traffic when the present structure is razed to make way for a new bridge. The constant beating of the big cakes of ice against the piles, which support the temporary bridges on either side of the bridge which is to be torn out, caused the railroad men to exercise every effort to keep the channel above the bridge open so that the ice would not spend its force against the support. Much of the ice of the upper reaches of the creek has come down, forming small gorges which block the stream at intervals.

Is Moving Here.

Rock-river began to clear of ice today and at noon the solidly frozen field in the south channel on the south side of the island broke up and passed over the dam, proceeding down the stream without jamming. The south channel was reported to be clear of ice to a point east of the city limits early this afternoon. The stage of water had remained stationary at the Illinois Northern Utilities Company hydro plant here, it was said this afternoon, although a rise was expected by night.

A rise of one-tenth of a foot was reported at the power dam at Oregon. Reports were also received of the forming of huge ice jams in the vicinity of the Grand Detour bridge and in the neighborhood of the Nelson railroad bridge. It was also rumored the water was seeping into the basement of the new high school building, but inquiry at the offices of the contractors, Schafer & Olson, brought forth a denial of the report, and they said there was no evidence of dampness in the basement.

East of the Galena Avenue bridge a huge field, frozen to the bottom of the river was holding and at one point a jam was forming which ran close to the power dam. The continued flow of heavy ice from the dam threatened to dislodge this gorge however. The channel on the north side still held fast this afternoon, although a heavy west wind appeared to be honeycombing the thickly frozen ice and it is expected to start breaking up almost any time.

Harmon Man Pleads Guilty to Charges

John Long, Harmon pool room proprietor, was the first of a long list of alleged liquor violators to appear before Judge Leach in the county court this morning. He pleaded guilty to an information containing two counts, those of possessing and sale of intoxicating liquor.

On the first count a fine of $250 and the court costs was assessed and paid. On the second count, that of possessing intoxicating liquor, Long was placed on parole for a period of one year. Judge Leach reminded Long that a violation of his parole would result in his being sentenced to the state farm at Joliet for a period of one year.

It was rumored about the court room that a number of the defendants, whose names appear on the trial docket, expect to enter pleas of guilty in preference to submitting to a jury trial on charges of liquor law violations. The jury was ordered to report this afternoon at 1:30.

Willis Spiller, 76, Died This Morning

Willis Spiller, aged 76, a resident of Dixon and vicinity for about 50 years, passed away at 2:30 this morning at the Lee County home near Eldena, his death resulting from an illness of about a year's duration. Mr. Spiller was born in New Hampshire and when a small boy came to Dixon where he has since resided. Funeral services will be conducted from the Staples chapel Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. Franklin Young, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating, and interment will be in Oakwood.

THE ALAMO MASSACRE
Ninety-three years ago today 250 Americans died in one of the bloodiest massacres in our history. They were members of the American garrison of the Alamo, an ancient mission church at San Antonio, Texas.

The merciless attack, on March 6, 1836, was led by General Santa Anna, who by a series of revolutionary gestures had put himself at the head of the Mexican government. It occurred just four days after Texas had declared its independence of Mexico.

The butchery caused great excitement in the United States. "Remember the Alamo" became a stirring phrase to Texans as "Give me liberty or give me death" was to the American colonists as a half century before. And on April 21 of the same year the Texans, under Sam Houston, overwhelmingly defeated Santa Anna's army of 1500 men at San Jacinto and took Santa Anna himself prisoner.

During all this while, the United States maintained a neutral position. It refused to become involved even when the Mexican Congress failed to ratify Santa Anna's promise of independence for Texas, given when he was taken prisoner at San Jacinto. It permitted, however, reinforcements for Houston to pass over American soil.

THOMAS TAGGERT, BIG DEMOCRATIC LEADER, IS DEAD

End Came to Chieftain at Indianapolis at 10:30 this Morn

Indianapolis, Ind., March 6—(AP)—Thomas Taggart, veteran Indiana Democratic leader, died at his home here this morning following an illness of several months. He was 72 years old. Mr. Taggart died at 10:30 o'clock. He had been in a critical condition since late yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Taggart returned from their summer home at Hyannisport, Mass., last fall and in October he underwent an operation for a stomach ailment. Since then his condition had gradually become weaker. Yesterday he took a turn for the worse.

His illness had prevented him from attending the Democratic national convention last year, the first he had missed for years.

His Last Influence

Taggart's influence in national politics was last felt in the long drawn-out New York convention of 1924, when he personally directed a move to nominate the late United States Senator Samuel Ralston of Indiana for the presidency. The convention was said to have been on the verge of turning to Ralston as a way out of the Smith-McAdoo deadlock, when Ralston withdrew from the race because of ill health. Ralston died a short time later.

Surviving Mr. Taggart are the widow, a son, Thomas D. Taggart of French Lick, and four daughters, Miss Lucy Taggart of New York and Indianapolis; Mrs. D. Laurence Chambers, Miss Irene Taggart, and Mrs. Richardson Sinclair, all of Indianapolis; and several grandchildren.

Thomas Taggart became a power in national and Indiana politics because of two characteristics—loyalty to friends and his ability to remember names, faces and the smallest incidents.

Proof of his regard and loyalty for friendship is shown by an incident in 1915, when with 47 others, he was indicted on charges of election frauds in Indianapolis. Having furnished bond for his release he spared no efforts until he had raised $200,000 bail, obtaining the release of the entire 47 persons indicted with him. The charges later were dropped for lack of evidence. During the 30 years of his leadership in Indiana politics and his 20 years connection with national affairs, Thomas Taggart was said never to have deserted a friend in need.

Had Great Memory.

Mr. Taggart was an ardent believer in acquaintanceship as a factor to success. His friends related numerous instances in which he would pass through a crowded hall, meet people to the right and left of him, that only for a moment and then several years later remember their faces, names and incidents relating to his first introduction to them.

A native of Ireland, born November 17, 1856, he earned his first wages as a waiter behind a railway lunch counter, but it was not long before he discarded his apron for more pretentious clothes of proprietor. Step by step he passed through the stages of hotel proprietor, a leader of state and national prominence in politics, owner of an Indiana health resort and United States Senator. He was at one time owner of

Father of Former Dixon Pastor Dead

Friends of John Garand Waggoner Sr., of Canton, Ill., were notified this morning of the death yesterday of this honored Christian minister, and prominent figure among Illinois Christian churches and conventions, for over sixty years, at his home, last evening, at the age of 84 years, 10 months and 13 days.

Mr. Waggoner is remembered in Dixon as the father of the local pastor of the Christian church, 1919-1922, Harvey G. Waggoner, whose death ended his ministry here; and whose son, John Garand, Jr., now post-graduate student in the Biblical Department of Yale University, was a popular Dixon high school student and athlete. Within the last year, "Father" Waggoner, as he was widely known, published a book, "The Beautiful Sunset of Life," which reflected in most tender and devoted style the writ's deep, abiding faith, and increasing joy over his stalwart Christian hope.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Canton Christian church, with burial in Eureka, in charge of Rev. B. H. Cleaver of Dixon.

Since the expulsion of Buddhism by the Yi dynasty in the fourteenth century, the Korean people have been accustomed to the use of meat as an article of diet.

Noted Leader of Democrats Died This Morn

Former United States Senator, who for years was an important power in the affairs of the Democratic party, died this morning at his home in Indianapolis at the age of 72. He had been ill for several months.

POLICEMAN IS BEING WATCHED IN GANG CRIME

His Name and Telephone Number Found on Liquor Depot Wall

Chicago, Mar. 6—(AP)—Ever since the Valentine's Day gang massacre, the State's Attorney's office has closely studied the possibility that one of the slayers may have been a police officer. Today, these investigators said a policeman now is under surveillance as a suspect.

A raid yesterday on a liquor depot supplied the officer's name, they said. On a wall of the depot (a garage) was found his name, address and telephone number, with information on where he might be reached at any hour of the day.

The place raided was operated by Claude Maddox and Danny Valle, both wanted in connection with the slayings.

Says Killers Were Paid

John Siege, Deputy Police Commissioner, does not hold with the State's Attorney's men that a policeman was involved. He reiterated today that the septic slaying was accomplished by paid killers from out of town.

"How about Jack McGurn?" Siege was asked. McGurn is under arrest charged with the murders.

"McGurn was in the game," Siege said. "He no doubt planned it. If we had all the men we're after, we still would hold him."

The killers, who Siege said were paid $10,000 each to aid in wiping out the George Moran gang, were Fred Burke and James Ray, former members of the St. Louis "Egan's Rats."

Assistant State's Attorney David Stansbury said he had learned that Burke and Ray achieved their reputations as slayers when they killed Frank Yale in New York last July 1.

CENECOR ON MONTEREY

Mexico City, Mar. 6—(AP)—Federal troops converged from five directions on Monterey capital of Nuevo Leon, this morning. A counter attack which would attempt recapture from General Gonzalo Escobar was imminent.

So seriously did the government regard recent successes in northern Mexico and capture of Monterey Monday by General Gonzalo Escobar that a large body of troops was taken from the Vera Cruz campaign and dispatched to Nuevo Leon. General Andreu Almazan, commanding the Vera Cruz campaign, was sent northward with the contingent which this morning was well past San Luis Potosi.

Creamery in Ogle County is Burned

The creamery at Egan in Ogle county was totally destroyed by fire, discovered at 3:15 o'clock this morning, and because there is no apparent cause for the blaze Ogle county officials today started an investigation, hunting at incendiaryism. The building was owned by the Chicago, Great Western Railroad Co. and the creamery equipment was the property of George Smid of Chicago, the loss being about $9,000.

APPROACH CITY FROM FIVE DIRECTIONS NOW

Military Action on an Extended Scale Reported Elsewhere

Washington, March 6—(AP)—American Consul Willys A. Myers at Vera Cruz reported to the State Department today that the third battalion of the revolutionary garrison at Vera Cruz had mutinied at dawn today and was occupying half of the city.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Military action on an extended scale marked the progress of the Mexican revolution today, both the government and rebels beginning troop movements in the north and south with heavy fighting in prospect.

Disturbed by the capture of Monterey, important strategic railway center, federal forces were marching from five directions on the capital of Nuevo Leon to drive out General Escobar, powerful rebel leader in control there.

For the moment the government appeared to be concentrating on Monterey being content merely to bottle up the city of Vera Cruz, which has been cut off from the rest of the country.

In the north the rebels appeared to have scored signal successes, but battle lines were being drawn at two points almost within gun range of the American border.

The rebels were reported to be enroute to Juarez, across the border from El Paso, while local federales were marching on Nogales, Sonora, now in rebel hands.

Reports of fighting favorable to the rebels at Mazatlan, Sinaloa, Torreon, Coahuila and Cananana have been received, while the rebels also claimed Chihuahua City.

Of the 60,000 men in the Mexican Army it was estimated at Mexico City that 10,000 have gone over to the rebels while 50,000 have remained loyal to the government.

General Borquez, revolutionary commander of northern Sonora, claiming nine states, declared that the revolutionary leaders were in a position to sweep down upon the Capital from the north, east and west.

He also asserted that the government was making no progress in Jalisco because that state was full of Catholics who have been persecuted by former

"ALMOST LIKE A MIRACLE WHAT THE GLY-CAS DID"

Terrible Rheumatism Vanished with 3rd Box of Amazing Herbal Remedy; Has Never Returned.

"There is something near-miraculous in the way that Gly-Cas goes straight to the very root of rheumatism agony and removes that terrible condition," Mrs. Jane Campbell, 638 N. Sixth St., Terre Haute, Ind., says in a statement ringing with gratitude of a person who for years has been baffled and discouraged with every attempt to end suffering and then at last finds the medicine to actually reach and completely relieve their case.

"If there is any known medicine for rheumatism that I had not tried in my years of suffering I do not know what it is," Mrs. Campbell continued. "I had resorted to special treatments, too, but without exaggeration the only thing to reach my case has been Gly-Cas."

"I had suffered constantly for almost a year before I took Gly-Cas. In both my hands up the arms into my shoulders and back, the pains were terrible. It wasn't any use for me to try to comb my hair because I could not do it at all and active use of my hands or arms in any way was impossible. When I tried to sleep at night, knife-like pains broke my rest and with all this agony, I could get no relief.

"Residents of Terre Haute as well as from other cities continued to recommend the Gly-Cas so highly that I finally decided to try it and where every other known preparation I had tried had failed, this medicine that acted like a miracle, has ended my suffering. At the end of the third box of Gly-Cas I was absolutely rid of rheumatism. The awful knife-like pains had vanished and my joints were entirely free of the swelling and inflammation. But best of all, my wonderful relief has been lasting. It is months now since I stopped taking Gly-Cas, but the old rheumatism has never returned in any way."

"Gly-Cas is the greatest rheumatism remedy there is. When you compare it with similar preparations it certainly stands out as the best, without an equal."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, 501 Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Ambury, Aschenbrenner; Drug, Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

HOOVER TURNS ATTENTION TO EXTRA SESSION

Confers With Leaders of Party on Date for Calling

Washington, March 6—(AP)—On the second full day of his administration, Herbert Hoover's mind turned to the special session of Congress which he has promised to call to deal with the farm relief problem and the tariff. He talked the question over with Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader of the House, and other members of Congress, but reached no final decision as to the date.

Representative Tilson recommended that the call be issued either for April 10 or April 15 and the probability is that Mr. Hoover will select the latter date since it falls on a Monday.

Farm relief will be taken up first by the House while the Ways and Means committee is perfecting the tariff revision amendment to the existing law. The Senate in the meantime will perfect its organization and give attention to nominations, many of which failed with the last Congress.

Had Many Callers

The Chief Executive had many callers during the forenoon and received two recommendations for the office of Solicitor General of the United States made vacant by the elevation of William D. Mitchell to the Attorney Generalship.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania proposed the name of John G. Buchanan, a Pittsburgh lawyer; while the appointment of Judge Charles Dawson of Kentucky was urged by Senator Sackett, J. M. Chilton, National Committeeman, and R. W. Hunter, Republican State Chairman of Kentucky.

Another caller was Senator Borah of Idaho who said he congratulated the President on his inaugural address and especially that part of it dealing with general law enforcement.

Senators Edge of New Jersey and Robinson of Indiana and Dan Pomroy of New Jersey, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, called to pay their respects to the Chief Executive.

THE TASK AT HAND

ABRAHAM Lincoln said
"I shall prepare myself
And perhaps my time will come."
For nearly thirty years
The Nazarene worked in a carpenter shop
Preparing himself
For his Christly mission.
Shall I rebel at what is at hand
For me to do?
How do I know that it is not Preparation for a higher place
Than I could conceive
With my stunted vision?
Willingly must I do, and well,
What is here for me to do today
For I will not be ready
When my time comes.
One step at a time
And there will be no weak links
For me to forge anew.
When I have finished with this task
It will drop away from me,
Like the dry husk of a nut.
When I have outgrown this place
I cannot stay, though I would.
G. John.

Art Bulletin Has Story on Life of Grand Detour Man

Grand Detour, Ill., Mar. 6.—(AP)— Lifted out of a "ramp printer's life by the "Art bug" as he calls it, John T. Nolf, now famous as an artist, has established himself in a studio on the Rock River here, where he spends his summers painting picturesque Illi-noisians.

Given his start as painter in the Chicago Art Institute years ago, he was particularly gratified that one of his Illinois pictures has just won two prizes in the Chicago Artists Show now at the Art Institute. Entitled "Two Boys Plowing," his canvas took the Mrs. William O.
Thompson prize, and the Municipal Art League Prize of $500 by ballot.

The story of Mr. Nolf's colorful career is outlined in the Art Institute bulletin, in part, as follows:
"Many years ago a lad in his teens came to Chicago from his home town in Pennsylvania to ply his trade of composer. In those times the Eighteenth Amendment had not yet been formulated and printers were among the folliest and most convivial among all the tradesworkers.
To see a man coming down the walk covering both sides of the pavement at the same time, with a nose the color of deep rose, was almost a sure sign that a printer had broken loose.

"Our Pennsylvania boy fell for this convivial life and for the next few years toured the country via freight Pullmans and his own sturdy legs. In this way he saw life and sampled the civilization of many States of the Union, eventually reaching the Pacific Coast where he worked his craft in Seattle, Portland and many other cities. At that time Astoria, Oregon, had no railroad, and it was some meat to get to the place, which in early history was the first trading post on the coast founded by Hudson's Bay Company.

"Our wanderer reached this town and worked there at his trade for some time. This unusual circumstance gave him the name of 'Astoria Johnny'.

"When he came back to Chicago
he again took up the printer's trade.
I used to drop into the Art Institute," he said, "and look at the pictures.
I did this so much that I grew to love them, and began to wonder if I could draw or paint. I finally mustered up courage and visited the office. Secretary Carpenter advised me to keep on working days and go to night school. I did so. For the next few years I was engrossed in art. I forgot my wanderlust and even dropped the printer's trade.

I got a position as a commercial artist and made good money drawing cartoons and ads. I began to paint and my things passed the juries and now are hung in the Art Institute shows."

"Now a robust man in the prime of life, with good health and a cherry outlook upon the world, friends with his neighbors whom he loves to paint, John T. Nolf owns a handsome studio in the little village of Grand Detour on the Rock River, where he spends his summers in painting the wholesome characters in that picturesque section. "Two Boys Plowing" are youths grown upon rich Illinois soil and there are many strong, virile American characters there to paint and many picturesque landscapes to put on canvas. "An artist is crazy to go abroad to paint," says Mr. Nolf,
"when he can find such a wealth of material right here at home."

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALFRED J. JONES

Sir Joseph Duveen, famous art expert, who recently defended himself against a $500,000 suit for slander of title, found himself in one of the worst pickles known to man. For he had dared to say that a certain picture owned by a certain Mrs. Andrew Lardoux Hahn was not a genuine Da Vinci canvas as the lady insisted.
Sir Joseph encountered that most difficult of all human beings to swerve—a woman who has always labeled some possession as genuine and who, from the mere fact that she so labeled it, will never admit that she was wrong. The pride of possession is so strong in women that it is almost inevitable that they create possessions of which to be proud if they do not exist.

We all know women who create proud family trees, adding a leaf and twig here and there to the general hazy idea that they are great-granddaughters of the giants of the past.

HERE'S INSTANCE

I know a certain woman who, upon the strength of a courteous letter written by a certain famous senator in answer to one from her father asking for certain facts of ancestry, because of a common name and an attempt to trace relationship, has by now convinced herself and her children and grandchildren that this senator is a first cousin of her father.
She quotes him as "Cousin So-and-So" and has built up a dream world with herself as a child visiting in his elegant Washington home,
being taken to the Capitol by him, dangled on his knee, and sharing in great historical events in which he was a prime figure.

If anyone suggested that this good soul was a candidate for an Annals club she would be horrified. She has told her story so often that it's as much a part of her possessions as the rosewood table inherited from her grandmother and her spool bed from her husband's grandmother.

Speaking of these antiques, other women insist that rather ordinary cheap little tables and chairs and beds, painted in through generations are solid rosewood and mahogany and walnut and cherry, the sort of thing for which a museum, or antique dealer would just sell his soul
if he could lay hands upon them.

NEED FOR SUPERIORITY

It never occurs to them, to have these supposed peerless objects appraised or any opinion given them by an expert; a half fear, perhaps, that they may be wrong, and they don't want to know that their solid gold is but gilt. But it's more than that—it's the rather universally human trait of having superior possessions, even if they must be created in the mind of the possessor.

Pawnbrokers tell of literally hundreds of people who storm their doors every year bringing in the treasures of which they have been so sure throughout long years, only to be told that the supposed real pearls and real cameos and real diamonds and solid gold this and that are cheap little baubles.

Even when told they will not believe, but murmur:
"Why, I know it's real; we've had it in the family for years."

And yet who shall blame this fault, if fault it is. The ability to create our own rich possessions is a rather priceless one, and life might be bare indeed without it.

It only explains why even an erudite art critic has a real job when it comes to convincing a lady that her "genuine" Da Vinci is not that at all, but only a bleary-eyed copy.

Society of the Methodist church entertained at a charming spring luncheon Friday at 1 o'clock at the church, members and invited guests numbering in all about eighty-five.
The decorations were in three shades of yellow and were exceptionally at-were in these pretty shades, also. After the luncheon a delightful social afternoon was enjoyed. Mrs. Will Hintz was chairman of the commit-

Fred Ball, Mrs. Oscar Cline and Miss Ino Shelhamer and on departing all present expressed their pleasure at the pleasant afternoon to these

All families of the church are invited to the picnic supper at 6:30 o'clock

large, come small. 'Tis like salvation,
"free."

Recent Pleasant Meeting Enjoyed

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church recently held a very enjoyable all day study class at the home of Mrs. Warren C.
Dukes. The subject, "What Next in Missions," was ably given by five members of the society.

Two very pleasing piano numbers were given by Mrs. Will Smith,
"Dawn," and "Love Song," from the Venetian Suite by Ethelbert Nevin.
Mrs. I. B. Potter sang delightfully two numbers, "Ninety and Nine," by Campion; and "If I were a Voice," by Woodbury.

A very delicious luncheon and social hour were enjoyed at noon. On departing for their homes at dusk all the members expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Dukes for her hospitality.

TEXAS PORTIA AGAINST BILL FOR WOMAN'S RIGHTS—

Dallas.—(AP)—A Dallas woman lawyer is opposing a proposed legislative bill designed to increase rights of married women in Texas.
So convincing were arguments of Mrs. Helen M. Vignini, former assistant district attorney, that the Dallas Bar association adopted a resolution opposing the "fifty-fifty" bill. It would give women rights to contract debts without permission of their spouses.

"It would be a great day for house-to-house peddlers if the bill were passed," Mrs. Vignini said. "Women would buy radios and brushes and dictionaries and all manner of things they don't need. The bill would increase divorces."

BRYANT WASHBURN TO WED MISS PEARS—

Los Angeles, March 6.—(AP)—Bryant Washburn, motion picture actor,

dren.

YOUR CHILDREN
by Olive Roberts Barton © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

Smile if you wish at the recollection of one Monsieur Coue, and his happy little doctrine of "Every day in every way." The world was no worse for it. Whether or not we embrace personally any of the creeds that reduce trouble to a minimum and stamp their seal of approval on a happy frame of mind, we must concede that it is a great step in the right direction.

A "healthy frame of mind" must start with children. One cannot easily grow up from childhood with the habit of sniffling trouble around the corner and then in maturity, when that pessimism is part of our flesh and bone, throw it off successfully, or at least without a terrible struggle.
We cannot be happy all at once if we have never learned how to be happy.
It is difficult then to become an optimist, as many of us know.

Happiness is necessary to perfect development in childhood. Material happiness in its many forms, mental happiness, and physical happiness, make one great essential whole. But to make these three forms of happiness possible, there must be a wholesome, healthy state of mind to begin with.

Happiness is such a big word. It is difficult to analyze. Mr. Edison says he does not know anyone who is happy. I do not believe that happiness is impossible. Children are happy.
The trouble is that they are trained out of happiness in so many cases.

One time a man approaching eighty quoted to me, "I am an old man and have had many troubles, most of which never happened," and he added, "If you want to be happy, try to learn this lesson before you are any older. Stop dreading trouble. It's a real curse."

Just as he presented that golden advice to me, I am handing it on to you, to use on your children.
Bring them up free of dread. Fear is the hidden cause of most complexes. The human race seems to be born with the seeds of fear, only too ready to spring into blossom at the first encouragement.

GIRL "TROUBLE CLERK" COUNTS ON HER SMILE—

Revere, Mass.—(AP)—Going, perhaps, on the principle that "a soft answer turneth away wrath," the pointed as official "complaint clerk"

a young woman with a charming voice and a persuasive smile.

She is Louise Terminello, 19, but beyond her years. The number of persons who call daily at the city hall to see the mayor "personally" is incredible, according to veteran em-who have grievances, legitimate or imaginary, about anything from ash or garbage collection to erroneous tax bills.

SICKLY SENTIMENTALITY.

One of the most encouraging things about this world is that there is in it a great deal of sickly sentimentality.

Sickly sentimentality, as you no doubt know, is one of those emotional qualities that everybody publicly scorns and secretly cherishes. It is supposed to be a thing that springs only from the hearts of the ignorant and uncultured; yet, by and large, it does a good deal toward making the world a better place.

A New York detective, cruising through traffic in a police car the other day, came upon the scene of a traffic accident. An old woman had been hit by a car. The detective took her to a hospital.

Mortally injured, the old lady clung to the husky young officer. As they drove to the hospital she murmured: "Sonny, please take care of me."

The detective promised that he would. He saw her established in a hospital ward, got her name and set out to find her relatives. She had none. She was alone in the world, without money and without connections. Apparently no one in New York cared greatly what happened to her. Besides, the doctors said that she would die.

But she had called the detective "sonny," and had leaned on him for help. So he visited the hospital daily, bringing her flowers and the like; and when, in a moment of consciousness, the old woman repeated her plea, he patted her hand and promised, "Sure, mother, I'll take care of you."

In a few days she died. Since she had neither money nor friends, the city authorities prepared to give her an unmarked grave in Potter's field. But the detective didn't like that idea. He got together what spare cash he had, talked to some of his associates and got some contributions from them, and arranged for a grave in a private cemetery, with a decent funeral in a church.

All of that, of course, was sheer sentimentality—of the sickly kind, no doubt. It is easy to point out that the matter of funeral and burial really did no one but the detective himself any good; that the old woman was past caring, and that the whole thing could not make any difference to anyone else.

But it does make a difference, just the same. Every appeal that weakness makes to strength is important; and every time that strength heeds the appeal, and acts on it—no matter for what reason—we get one more reason for trusting that the world is fundamentally a decent place.

There wasn't any sentimentality or kindness or pity in the race in the beginning. The rule of tooth and claw prevailed. In primitive society the weak, the aged and the helpless were simply out of luck. Might made right, and no one doubted that that was the way things should be.

But we have developed a new way of looking at things. Our sickly sentimentality has made us kinder and more sympathetic. To be sure, occasionally it leads us into making fools of ourselves. But that doesn't matter. It softens the hard edges of existence and eases a heartache now and then. And that's all that counts.

AT THE RINGSIDE.

Sports writers have made much of the fact that the Sharky-Stribling fight drew a "society crowd." Millionaires old and new, social leaders, business men and public officials were present at the ringside, and this was presented as something new in the pugilistic world.

As a matter of fact, it isn't anything new at all—except, perhaps, for the presence of women. Prize fighting, for many years, was a sport—or whatever you want to call it—nourished by the rich and socially prominent. The gay "young bloods" of England's best families kept the game alive through a long period. They put up the purses and made the thing profitable.

Society has always patronized fights. The only difference is that it is doing it openly now.

Washington friends of Mrs. Coolidge gave her a brooch in appreciation of her graciousness as First Lady. Bet the folks back in Northampton can hardly wait until they see that.

As King George grows stronger and stronger each day, we can hardly wait to find out what kind of vegetable oil restored his health.

According to George Bernard Shaw, "the professions, speaking quite roughly, at the present time are all humbug." Yes, that is speaking quite roughly.

Considering the fact that he was deposed as head of the Salvation Army because he was "physically unfit," General Bramwell Booth certainly did put up a pretty fit battle for his job.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOCK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Maple Tree said, "I'll be nice to you if you'll take my advice. Who'll go upon an errand that is not so hard to do. It merely means you'll have to run, but it will lead to heaps of fun." "I will!" exclaimed wee Scouty, and the tree said, "Good for you!"

"Just over the hill you'll find a house. Go up as quiet as a mouse and gently knock upon the door. A fat man will appear. You'll find he's dressed up very sick. Please tell him that I want him quick. Then wait until he comes with you, and bring him right back here."

Then Scouty said, "I'll find that man." And over the hill he quickly ran. It wasn't very long until he came back on the run. The fat man yelled, "Hello there, bunch. I guess you're ready for some lunch. I've brought my pancake batter and my stove. We'll have some fun."

The little stove burned gasoline. The Tinies watch with interest keen while Mister Baker baked some cakes. Oh, my, but they looked fine. The Tinies gathered 'round a tree, sawed off as nice as it could be. Then "Clowny" shouted, "Hurry up. I'm ready now for mine."

The Maple Tree then hollered, "Wait. I'll pay for you to hesitate. Your cakes will taste lots better with my syrup spread on thick. Walk by me with your plate, in hand, and I will show you something grand. Don't get my syrup on your clothes. It's always bound to stick."

So, with their pancakes piled up high, the Tinies calmly sauntered by the queer old maple teapot and its syrup slowly spilled. And then the whole bunch slowly ate, and all agreed the cakes were great. At last the baker said, "I guess you all are nicely filled."

that the perspiration ran down on our foreheads and into our eyes, carrying coal dust with it. It was not long before my companion almost suffocated and became prostrate. We worked with regular miner's lamps. I had a bucket of water which I threw on him to restore him. The coal continued to pour in for three hours and finally when the workmen quit on the outside for the day, we shoveled the coal away and got out. That was the last time I went to a coal bunker.

I later made a request to the captain and asked him to transfer me to the deck department, because I had been accustomed to working in the open air on the farm and in the Army, and I felt that I was more set to that type of work. I also explained to him that I had ambitions of becoming an officer on the deck. He granted the request.

I was in the deck department for six months, going through the grades of a routine seaman, coxswain and quartermaster. Every summer the Hartford was employed to take midshipmen from Annapolis out on a cruise. It was on one of these cruises—one of my jobs being to wind all the clocks on the ship—that I wandered into the school room located on the half deck aft.

In this school room was a large black board on which were problems pertaining to navigation and other subjects which the midshipmen were to solve during the course of their work. The ones pertaining to navigation interested me so I copied them and when I got to the corner of the chart room, I tried to work them out. That was my first experience with navigation, and I believe this to be the foundation of my progress to the bridge.

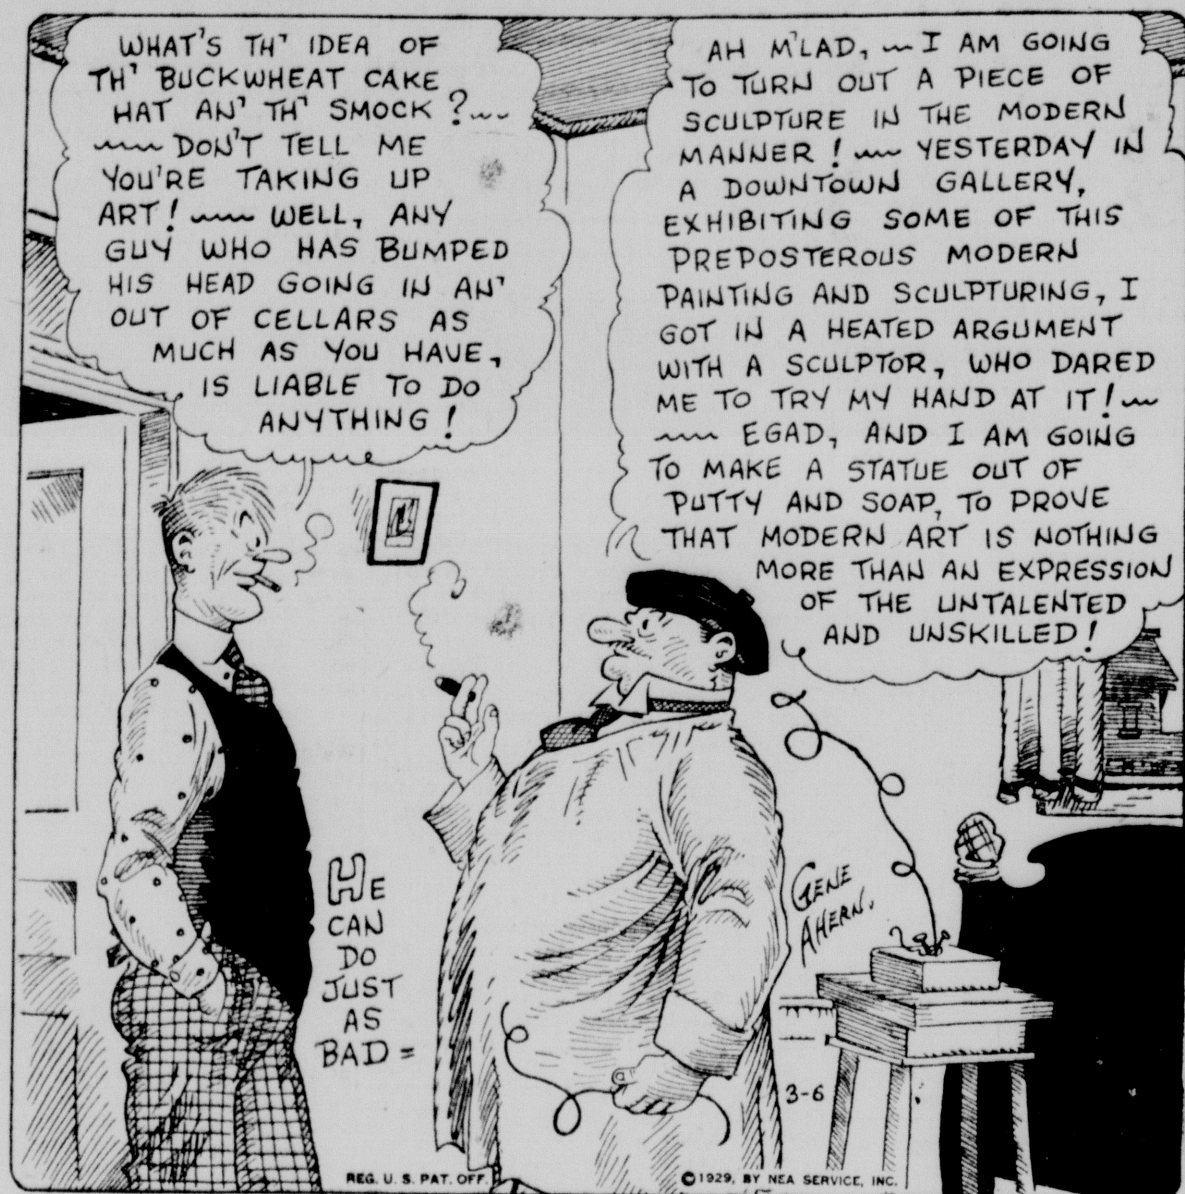

The officers on the Hartford were kind and courteous and several of them saw me at work assisted me. Later I obtained some books and delved more deeply into the subject. Along with this, of course, I was getting instructions in seamanship, gunnery and sail drill, but the routine was then interrupted by special orders as "topsail clewlines and buntings weather topsail braces." That was a signal to drop everything and get to the station for taking in sails.

Another order that frequently interrupted my studies was "ready about station for stays." This means tacking ship. In those days we stood watch four hours on and four off, which is quite different from today with the three watch system—four on and eight off.

After my five years on the Hartford, I was transferred to various cruisers and battleships and in 1916 to the fleet reserve. My first job was as third officer on the Solace. There was a bad fire on the ship one time which started from natural combustion in the bunker. Some of the crew insisted that a boatswain had fallen into the medicine locker to which the fire had spread.

I was permitted to go into the locker with a wet towel around my head and a line on my body. A number of hoses were playing down there and I felt around but could not locate him. I was completely knocked out from this experience and later found that the boatswain had been elsewhere and was uninjured.

Shortly before the war, I was recalled by the navy and was attached to the battleship Kentucky. After an examination I was assigned to that ship as an ensign and then became junior lieutenant aboard the Petrel. Then the war broke out and I was promoted to the rank of lieutenant and placed in command of the Zuiderdijk.

Stimson is Enroute to States from Japan

Yokohama, Japan, March 5—(AP)

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State in the Cabinet of President Hoover, left here this afternoon aboard the steamship President Pierce for the United States.

Col. Stimson, who is retiring as Governor of the Philippines, received the news of President Hoover's inauguration just before he left Tokyo. He said this year in the Philippines had done much to restore confidence between the Washington government and the Filipinos. As a result, he said, agitation for independence has virtually disappeared.

MY THIRTY YEARS AT SEA

By Capt. George Fried

In earning his rank, Fried worked from the coal bunker to the bridge. He took every job as it came. It was in a ship's school room that he learned the problems of navigation, a school room in which he believes was laid the foundation of his progress.

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press)
CHAPTER IX

Earning the rank of captain is sometimes not very easy. Promotion depends a great deal upon the circumstances, and of course, hard work and study are absolutely essential.

Entering the navy as a landsman for training and having the appearance of being strong physically, I was assigned to the blackgang and worked in the fire room of the Buffalo and Hartford, passing coal, firing and oiling. This was a department that I was not very keen in working inasmuch as I had set my eyes on the bridge, but it fell to my lot and I decided to go through with it, come what may.

It was in the West Indies, aboard the Hartford, that I was assigned with another young man to a coal bunker to trim coal as it came down. By trimming coal is meant to push the coal out into the corners of the bunker so as to get as much as possible into this particular hold. After the bunker is half filled it is impossible to get out, excepting through the opening through which the coal is being poured in.

The coal was coming in so fast that it was impossible for my companion and myself to get the coal clear of the chute. Naturally fresh air could not enter.

It was very warm, in fact so hot

A NOBLE SACRIFICE

...who was right?

STANDING in the shadows, Marvin Smith saw Jack's young wife come swiftly, silently, into the moonlight.

How tired she looked—how ragged her clothes were! His pulse quickened. Soon, now, she would come to him...

"Bobbie," he whispered.

She stifled a cry. "What are you doing here?"

"I had to see you!"

They were close to each other now, his body aflame, his arms reaching to hold her.

"Let me help you, Bobbie! You need food, clothes, money. How can you bear this poverty? I love you—I want to help you—"

"But my husband..."

"He'll never know. You ought to do it for his sake, Bobbie—he needs care and medical attention."

"For his sake!" she thought wildly. What should she do? What could she do? She had come to these desolate hills a young bride—eager for the love-nest Jack had promised. Love-nest! The house was a hovel—the farm a barren wasteland. There were no comforts, not even the bare necessities. Now Jack lay injured... penniless... in pain...

And here was Marvin Smith, offering her money, comfort, luxury! His handsome face was bent close to her's. She could see the shining blackness of his hair, his eyes—

"It would be sin," she whispered.

"It would be a noble sacrifice," he said.

Who was right?

DIST. TOURNNEY OPENS TOMORROW IN STERLING H. S.

Dixon Team Entered in Contests for Dist. Championship

Sterling—Tickets for the Sterling district basketball tournament, which opens Thursday afternoon are selling much better than was anticipated. Quite a few reservations have been made by supporters of the Dixon high school team and Lyndon is also expected to have almost the entire town here on the opening afternoon when Lyndon meets Albany in the opener at 3:30 o'clock.

The Lyndon team is coached by F. C. Thomas, and the team captain is appointed at the start of each game. Last season the team won six and lost eight games but this season has been a better one and the boys have split even with nine wins and nine defeats. The team is made up of experienced players and they are hoping to show the fans something. The 10 players who will represent the school are Redenbo, Bender, Anderson, Morse, Mulvey, Blagg, Bowen, Millikan, Hazard and G. Mulvey. The school colors are purple and gold, and the jerseys are white.

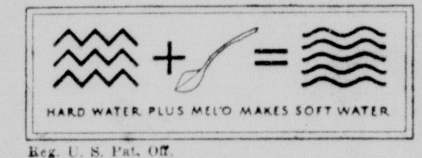

Paw Paw high school is coached by B. N. Haddick and Dee McLaughlin is captain this year. The fans will remember Dee. He was one of the smallest players in the tournament two years ago and he shot some beautiful long shots that kept his team in the race until they met up with the tourney winners. Dee also had a good year last year and this should be his banner season. Last year the team won 16 and lost nine, and this year won 12 and lost seven. The team is composed of experienced players, and won the recent Lee county tournament. The school colors are purple and gold. The players will be Dee McLaughlin, P. Thomas, Hackman, Brunerman, K. Thomas, Hunter, B. McLaughlin, Beale and Ulrey.

Green Team in Rock Falls
Rock Falls is coached by R. L. Ak-ey, and a captain is appointed by the coach at the start of each game. Last year Rock Falls won 10 games and

DEMPSEY ISN'T CERTAIN WHAT FUTURE HOLDS

Three Lines of Activity are Before Former Champion Now

Miami, Fla., Mar. 6—(AP)—Jack Dempsey left Miami and Miami Beach last night for New York, not as former heavyweight champion, but in his role of successful promoter of the recent battle between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling.

"I don't know what I'll do yet," he said. "I have three things before me, but I can not say yet what the next step will be."

One of the three lines of activity facing Dempsey is understood to be a berth with the Garden Corporation as a promoter. He has an offer from Humbert Fazy, former rival of Tex Rickard, for a partnership in a two-man firm of promoters.

The third opportunity for continued association with the business side of fighting, he said, is a proposition to go in with Floyd Fitzsimmons of Detroit in the development of a world's championship lightweight fight between Sammy Mandell, champion, and Ray Miller, Michigan youth who has forged to the upper part of the list in his class.

And then, of course Dempsey may decide to don the gloves again. "I'd like to get in there at least once more," he said, "but I can't decide whether it's more exciting to win a fight than to promote one successfully."

Jack said he had made an offer to Paulino Uscudum, Spanish battler, for a bout with Sharkey, the former having asked for a guarantee of $100,000.

He plans to attend the Madison Square Garden show in Boston Friday night. He said. With him was Estelle Taylor, his wife.

Cubs to Mainland Tomorrow for Game

Avalon, Cal., Mar. 6—(AP)—A championship of some sort was at stake today as the Avalons and Catalinas lined up for the deciding game of the Cubs' inter-club series. Each team has won one game.

The Cubs go to the mainland tomorrow to meet the Los Angeles in the first of a three-game series. The large squad was given lots of hitting practice yesterday.

All of the Cubs are in the best of physical condition for the first real pre-season game with the Los Angeles club.

CARDINALS WORK HARD TO ROUND INTO CONDITION

The National League Title Holders Appear to be Strong Now

BY BRIAN BELL

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Avon Park, Fla., Mar. 6—(AP)—If it is true that uneasy lies the head that wears the crown of manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Billy Southworth is managing to conceal it.

The former pennant-winning Rochester pilot believes in hard work and more of it. No club in Florida is working such long hours and at such speed as the National League champions.

A training camp innovation has been made by the construction of two batting cages, in addition to the regular batting practice at the plate. Southworth also has two pitchers alternating in tossing to the batters.

The only picnic about the champions' practice sessions is the luncheon. The athletes waive the formality of returning to their hotel for the midday meal, and are satisfied with a sketchy repast on the bench and in the club house.

One Infield Change.
The Cards are committed to one infield change and there may be more. Charley Gehrert, the sensational young shortstop from Rochester, will play short.

If Carey Selph comes up to speed, The Cards have two new coaches, neatons he will go to second base with Frankie Frisch moving over to third.

Fred Haney, former Detroit player, and Andy High are also available for third. Jim Bottomley gets re-nomination without opposition at first base. There are only six outfielders on the roster, including Manager Southworth, who probably will fill a utility role. Walter Roettge, seems to have recovered from his broken leg, and would seem to have first call on right field. Taylor Douthitt and Chick Hafey will hold over in the other outfield posts. This will leave Ernest Orsatti, and Roscoe Holm available as reserves with the Manager. Southworth's arm is none too good, however, and he may content himself with pinch hitting against right hand pitching.

Wilson Main Catcher.
Jimmy Wilson will do most of the catching with the veteran Earl Smith available as first assistant. The other catching assignment awaits a contest between Gus Mancuso and Clarence Jonnard.

The pitching mainstays all know their way about from previous ordeals by fire. Grover Cleveland Alexander, at 42 and with 18 major league campaigns behind him, is the youngest player in the camp. He fields bunts by the hour and will be the first pitcher ready to take a turn. Willie Sherdel, Jesse Haines, Clarence Mitchell and Sylvester Johnson will complete the big five.

Herman Bell, back for another chance, and Frankhouse and Haid, who were on the club last year, should stick and two Texas Leaguers, Bill Hallahan and Harold Elliott have a chance. Hallahan has been handicapped in his early efforts by injuries, as has Frankhouse.

The Cards have two new coaches, both returning to the major leagues after a long absence. Earl "Greasy" Neale, former Cincinnati outfielder, and Charles "Gabby" Street, once a great Washington catcher, are rounding the team into shape.

Illinois Wesleyans Claim Championship

Bloomington, Ill., Mar. 6—(AP)—For the fourth consecutive year, Illinois Wesleyan today claimed the Little Nineteen Conference basketball championship. The Wesleyan victory over Eureka College last night, 41 to 24, brought the season's total to 10 out of 13 games.

The Wesleyans' record was the best of the colleges which played representative schedules. Lombard heads the standings with a perfect percentage but has played only six games. Eureka never threatened the champions last night. Meehan was the outstanding star of the game, accounting for 19 points.

Illinois College wound up its season with a 39 to 19 victory over Lincoln College last night. It was Lincoln's sixteenth consecutive defeat.

Bradley brought its final rating up a notch by trouncing James Millikin College 42 to 25 last night. Bradley finishes the season with seven victories and four defeats. Millikin won seven games out of 12.

CLEAR RING FOR ROCKEFELLER VS. STEWART BATTLE

Contest of Proxies to be Staged Tomorrow in Whiting, Ind.

BY ALLEN DALRYMPLE
Associated Press Staff Writer
Whiting, Ind., Mar. 6—(AP)—Oil in squatty tanks really deep in bare earth; oil, forever settling in greasy films, its penetrating smell ever present; oil—formed the background here today for a picture unique in industrial history.
The scene of delineation was the end of a nation-wide scramble for stockholders' votes to control a billion dollar corporation, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. It was the culmination of the fight of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to force Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the board of directors.
Oil, piped hundreds of miles from western fields, is the life-blood of this city of 20,000 inhabitants at Chicago's back door on the southern shores of Lake Michigan. The huge refineries employ approximately 90 per cent of the residents, who are ready for the influx of stockholders tomorrow to attend the annual meeting.

Expect 2000 Visitors
Restaurants were stocked with supplies for the anticipated 2,000 or more visitors and hotels expected to have all rooms taken, for indications were that the meeting would last for at least two days unless the outcome was indisputably determined by the number of proxies on hand in Chicago before the session opened.
Just off the main street, which is only 119 blocks from the loop business district of Chicago, the story and a half, rambling brick community house was fitted out like a political convention hall, batteries of telegraph and telephone wires resting under the auditorium stage, press tables in the orchestra pit, loud speakers linking the men's and women's gymnasiums with the main hall, and refreshment stands loaded to capacity.

Expect Real Fight
Indeed Whiting expected to witness a real convention fight, with Col. Stewart sounding the keynote in his annual business report, Rockefeller representatives presenting their side of the argument, and individual stockholders being heard from the floor. Mr. Rockefeller himself is in Egypt.

The structure is a gift of the company, John D. Rockefeller, Senior, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to the citizens of Whiting. It is a memorial to those who served in the World War.

Col. Stewart was asked what he would tell the stockholders in defense of his activities with the Continental Trading Company, which resulted in Mr. Rockefeller's demand for his resignation.

"Well if they flush me I'll tell them plenty," he replied with all his characteristic energy.
He will act as chairman to a meeting and then is expected to surrender the chair to E. G. Seubert, President of the Company, as he did last year, inasmuch as he is under fire.

Aldrich To Lead
Winthrop W. Aldrich, New York attorney, will be on hand to speak for John D. Jr., in any fight which may develop. He arrived in Chicago Monday with 16,000 proxies in metal cases and under armed guard.
Fifty nine per cent of the more than 9,000,000 shares of the Standard Oil stock had been lined up against Col. Stewart, Mr. Aldrich said. Although admitting some of them would be lost through revocations, Mr. Aldrich was "absolutely confident of victory."

The Rockefeller group has but 16,000 of the 56,000 stockholders on its side. The big blocks of stock, however, are held by the easterners. Only 190 stockholders possess 5,000 or more shares each, Mr. Aldrich explained, and most of those sided in with his client, who is also his brother-in-law.
Col. Stewart had on his side the proxies of 99.67 per cent of the company's 7,000 employee-stockholders, and the moral support, he said, of the great majority of the 25,000 on the company's pay roll. He claimed the proxies also of nearly all the stockholders in the middle west, the territory of the Standard of Indiana.
Unless the untested proxies of one side, counted at the offices in Chicago, so greatly outnumber those of the other, a long tedious checking at the meeting tomorrow is foreseen, with lawyers carefully examining votes to determine the most recently issued proxies.

Blackburne Picks Tentative Lineup

Dallas, Tex., Mar. 6—(AP)—Some idea of what Leno Blackburne intends to do with his large crop of ball players was obtained today when he sent the White Sox through an abbreviated ball game.
Blackburne announced his regular lineup as Mostil, Barrett and Reynolds in the outfield; Shires on first, Keer at second, Cissell at shortstop, Kamm on third and Crouse catching. Only Barrett and Mostil appear uncertain to appear in the starting lineup when the season opens.
Clarence Hoffman, a rookie, and Alex Metzler, who has not yet reported, are scheduled to hold down two of the outfield berths.

With the retirement of Kamm as field captain, Blackburne has named Art Shires to hold down the job temporarily. Other players, however, will be tried during the pre-season games.

Lenten Thought

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist
Worry is a form of distrust. It is an enemy of the soul because it never makes any situation better.

There are, of course, situations in which worry seems inevitable and in which it seems the right attitude toward trouble. We cannot think highly of a person who deludes himself into imagining that there is nothing wrong when, perhaps, there is a great deal wrong; and there are people in life who shrink their burden of worry and who take everything easy only by passing on the burden to somebody else.

But if we analyze the matter at all, we shall see that there is a great difference between the courage of faith, meeting wrong situations with the purpose of making them right, and the worry that simply weakens one's power of wise and courageous action in great emergencies.

Worry never yet solved any difficulty. The darker the night of one's experience, the more need there is of seeking light and hope and faith; whereas, worry only lets the gloom of light darken all the windows of the soul.

Worry breaks down the spirit, while hope and faith build up and inspire. Is it just when there is most to worry about that one most needs at attitude of faith.

BIG HIGH SCHOOL TOURNAMENTS ARE NOW IN DISFAVOR

The National Federation Campaigning Against Overemphasis

BY ORLO L. ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, Mar. 6—(AP)—Large high school basketball tournaments bringing teams from many states for several days will be things of the past if the recommendations of the National Federation of High School Athletic Associations are adopted.

The national federation has not only put its foot down on the national prep classic at the University of Chicago and similar interstate tournaments but has also strongly disapproved of long schedules and frequent tournaments within states. With the federation refusing to sanction the Chicago tournament the meet will be short of its national aspect as the organization has 31 states members.

Limited Schedules
In its effort to halt what is termed "overemphasizing of the game" the federation will ask the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to adopt standards demanding sane limitations of schedules as an essential prerequisite of a crediting.

Colleges, high schools, athletic clubs and other organizations accustomed to conducting invitational tournaments for high school teams will be appealed to in the federation's campaign to do away with all tournaments except those requested by the state high school association.

An average of one interscholastic game a week throughout the season is a reasonable maximum for a schedule, in the opinion of the federation, which has instructed its national council to urge high school educators and coaches to curtail schedules to the maximum suggested.

Came After Poll
The action of the federation taken at its recent meeting in Cleveland came after a poll of some 7,000 principals, two-thirds of the principals expressed their disapproval of interstate tournaments, stating that the number of tournaments has increased to such an extent as to constitute a menace to the educational system, and that there is little justification for interstate and inter-sectional tournaments which involve extensive travel and long absence from school.
Representatives from twenty-two of the 31 state members were present at the Cleveland meeting. All but Utah and South Dakota voted for the proposition to refuse sanction of interstate tournaments.

MEXICAN ARMY CONVERGING ON MONTEREY NOW

Meanwhile another federal contingent was advancing northwestward from Tampico under General Eulogio Ortiz and was bivouaced at Monte Morelos, Nuevo Leon, where it awaited General Almazan. Monte Morelos is a short distance south of Monterey.

Another federal column started from Matamoros, northeastern Tamaulipas, while General Braulio Serratos at the head of federal troops advanced from Nuevo Laredo southward and reached Salinas Victoria, a few kilometers north of Monterey. General Meza, formerly of General Escobar's command, advanced from Coahuila to join with the Serratos contingent.

Govt. Shifts Front
Thus in the space of 24 hours government efforts to quash the rebellion shifted from Vera Cruz, where opening the port as an outlet of the gulf was a matter of some necessity, to the north, where rail communications with the United States had been broken by rebel successes.

The contingents moving against Monterey will prove a formidable army, but such are the natural fortifications of the city bitter fighting may take place in an attempt to recapture it. General Escobar has 2,000 troops at the city for its defense. It is believed he will face as many as 8,000 federals.

Government Victories
The government announcement telling of the plans for the offensive expressed the belief Monterey would shortly be retaken, and General Escobar defeated.

Against reverses in the north the government had to its credit victories in Vera Cruz, including recapture of Orizaba, and return to its fold of the unit commanded by General Molinar.

In an official statement President Emilio Portes Gil said the troops commanded by General Molinar had been permitted to rejoin the government forces and instructed to go to Esperanza, Puebla, for incorporation into the advancing federal armies.

DRAW TWO BATTLE LINES

Nogales, Ariz., Mar. 6—(AP)—Opposing forces in the Mexican revolution today were drawing battle lines in two places almost within gun range of the United States border. Unofficial reports current here said the rebels planned an attack on Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Texas, and that loyal federals were moving on Nogales, Sonora.

Abelardo Rodriguez, civil governor of Baja California and military commander of the northern district of his state, has invaded the rebel state of Sonora, and occupied San Luis on the Baja California-Sonora border. General Gastelum, a commander under Rodriguez, with 250 troops, crossed into Sonora and it was announced that he would march across 200 miles of desert to attack the capital city.

Juarez Excited
There was great excitement in Juarez. Federal troops there moved 25 miles southward to cut the railroad line at Samalayuca, to stop the reported movement of a large number of revolutionaries believed to be advancing upon the city. Thus far Juarez has remained loyal to the Mexican City government.

Reports at Juarez said the advancing rebels, under General Marcelo Caraver, governor of Chihuahua, left Chihuahua City yesterday with the intention of attacking the border city. Observers said they believed the two forts in the mountains south of Juarez would be the scene of the fighting, if any. The troops at the forts were reported to be loyal to the government.

Move to U. S. Side

Funds in the Juarez branch of the Bank of Mexico were transferred to El Paso during the night and many Mexican officials moved their families to the American side.

An unverified report that 2,000 rebel troops were marching upon Nuevo Laredo, across the line from Laredo, Tex., was denied by General Benigno Serratos, head of the federals there. Loyal troops were massed at Nuevo Laredo, however, the explanation being that an attack was planned against rebels in the vicinity of Monterey, the state capital, which was taken by the revolutionaries Monday.

Bishop Juan Navarrete of the Roman Catholic diocese of Sonora was in the interior arranging for the first general observance of mass since 1926, when the clergy refused to continue services under what they regarded as unreasonable religious laws. Governor Topete, since the start of the revolt, has proclaimed suspension of the religious laws.

Rebels Converging
General Francisco Borquez, revolutionary commander of the northern section of Sonora, declared in a statement today from his headquarters in Nogales, Sonora, that rebel forces steadily were converging toward the interior of Mexico from Ortiz, Chihuahua, Durango, Torreon, Chihuahua City, and other strategic points.

"Controlling as we do Sonora, Sinaloa, Coahuila, Durango, Zacatecas, Nuevo Leon, Vera Cruz, Nayarit and Jalisco, we can sweep down on the national capital from the north, east and west," the statement said.

"The greatest battle of the revolution probable will be fought in Jalisco or Guanajuato," it continued.
"Calles will find he cannot make much progress in Jalisco, which is in our control and is full of Catholics who have been persecuted by him in the past. Calles, in fact, will never be able to organize the Jalisco Catholics."

Judge Asks Citizens to Cut Out 'Leggers

Charleston, Ill., Mar. 6—(AP)—Increasing violation of the prohibition laws has led County Judge Joe Lane of Coles county to make a plea to the so-called respectable element to not patronize the bootlegger.

The judge prophesied that the gangster will not be confined to the city for long but will branch out into the country where business is also lucrative. He asked people who do not sympathize with the law to observe it until and if it is repealed.
The large number of liquor law cases and the sympathies of jurors with the defendants in recent county court sessions led the judge to make his plea.

Offered Street Truck to Haul City Council

Charleston, Ill., Mar. 6—(AP)—Members of the Charleston city council, wont to wend their ways to and from meetings via the town taxicab, precipitated a storm when they presented a bill for $8.

"Very well," they met the storm of protest, "we'll just use the fire chief's cliver to come to meetings."

This made no hit with the fire chief. So the street cleaning department offered its truck for the purpose.

"That truck ain't fit to haul pigs in!" declared a council member. "We ain't proposin' to haul pigs," was the rejoinder.

VIVISECTION IS HIT IN BILL OF CHICAGO SENATOR

Would Prohibit Experimentation on Living Animals

Springfield, Ill., March 6.—(AP)—Senator Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, introduced his bill to prohibit vivisection in medical colleges, research laboratories, state universities and public schools, in the state Senate today. Vivisection is experimentation on live animals without anesthesia.

Sponsored by the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society, Inc., a non-profit organization composed of humanitarians in all parts of the state, the bill has been endorsed by humane and anti-cruelty organizations in Illinois, the American Liberty League, women's clubs and other civic and social organizations.

Introduction of the bill by Senator Courtney climaxes an educational campaign launched two months ago by the society in which every available means of spreading information was used to acquaint the general public with what the society alleges are the evil effects of vivisection. The Courtney bill would make it unlawful for "any person, whether or not such person is a physician or surgeon licensed by the Illinois State Board of Health, to experiment upon the body of any living animal. It also provides that the "keeping and maintaining in captivity of any animal by any medical school, public or private, including post-graduate schools or colleges of medicine or by any research laboratory shall be a violation of the act. The bill carries with it penalties of a $500 fine or imprisonment in the county jail, or both, for each offense.

To Permit Inspection
All schools, colleges, and laboratories would be required by the measure to permit any reasonable time a full inspection of the premises by any officer of the law and defines "reasonable" time "as any time that classes or experiments are being held."

In introducing his measure, Senator Courtney declared the anti-vivisection society "entitled to a full hearing of the facts."

"I do not claim to be a medical man," Senator Courtney said, but I am convinced that there is enough division of opinion on the question of vivisection in medical circles to justify my demand for a public hearing on this measure.

"Certain members of the medical profession have kept up a constant fire of criticism at me ever since I announced my intention of introducing this measure. Why is it, if vivisection is the necessary and beneficial practice that many doctors claim, that they are so strongly opposed to having its virtues aired in public?"

Believe Cause Just
"The members of this society and its officers strike me as reasonable, sane and intelligent people. They believe they have a justifiable cause. I do not know, yet. But I do know that they have presented sufficient evidence to convince me that there is room for an investigation of the practice. If, at the public hearing on this bill, the society is able to prove that the evils it charges do exist, then I shall ask the senate to pass my bill."

"My record is sufficient evidence of the fact that I would not support 'crank' legislation of any character. I do not have any desire to retard the progress of medical science, nor do I believe that is the wish of members of the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society. But I do have a very keen interest in a practice which scores of competent physicians, educators and social workers declare is brutalizing the youth of this state and is directly responsible for some of our horrible crimes."

Senator Courtney's bill presages an interesting fight, both in the committee and on the floor of the senate. No proposed law in recent years has stirred up as much antagonism as has the anti-vivisection bill, which strikes a death blow at what the anti-vivisection society calls the "archaic methods of the medical profession."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

"AN ENEMY TO EVERY HUMAN INTEREST"

The candy interests are just waking up to the fact that the tobacco business is its principal commercial opponent, and not only that but that the tobacco interests are characteristically unfair, deceitful, untruthful, un-American; and if the controversy continues long, a lot more people are going to find out that tobacco has absolutely no legitimate use whatever, except as a poison with which to kill bugs, lice and other pests; that its use by human beings is always more or less injurious and never beneficial; that even the pleasure or solace it is supposed to give is a delusion and a snare and that all mankind would be healthier, happier and enjoy life better without it than with it.

It is a great delusion to believe that one can cheat nature and get more pleasure out of life by artificial means, by the use of a drug, than by natural means. No drug can improve upon a perfectly healthy body or mind. The greatest enjoyment in life is to be had by complete conformity to the laws of nature.

But the tobacco business is not only commercially in opposition and detrimental to the candy business, but to practically every other legitimate business affecting the welfare of humanity. Tobacco is not only a useless product, but it is worse than useless, it is detrimental to the welfare and happiness of humanity. There isn't a single way in which tobacco is beneficial, but many ways in which it is detrimental.

The tobacco industry claims that it helps a lot by the taxes they pay. They don't pay a cent. They make the consumer not only pay them all they pay in taxes and also for the product itself, but enough more to Today's letter golf puzzle has to do with SCARE CROWS—you'll find them more interesting associates than you might imagine. Par is seven and one solution is on page 9.

C	R	O	W	S

THE RULES

1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEW, in three strokes: COW, HOW, HEW, MEN.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

3.—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 9.

put millions of dollars into their own pockets.

They claim they employ a lot of labor. Can the employment of labor, lands and factories in producing a worse than useless product, be a benefit to society? If it were employed in the production of useful articles this country would be better off by some two or three billion dollars a year.

The tobacco business is opposed to the interests of every purchaser of fire insurance. It costs everyone from 15 to 20 percent more because of the fires caused by smokers. If you buy fire insurance, you are contributing an amount every year equal to about 20 percent of what you pay, for the privilege of smoking or allowing others to smoke.

The non-smokers, who are greatly in the majority if you count the women and children, not only have to breathe air polluted by the poisonous smoke ejected from the smoker's mouth and nose, but has to help pay the damages the smoker does to society besides.

The tobacco business is detrimental to our public schools. The attainments of every pupil that acquires the tobacco habit is materially interfered with. Millions of dollars of the tax-payers money is rendered ineffective by the tobacco business—and we are practically all tax-payers, besides about half that we pay goes to the support of the schools.

The tobacco business is an enemy of the church. Very few tobacco-users ever became active workers in the church and still less of them ever contribute liberally to the support of real, vital religious work. The tobacco business in general is opposed to liquor prohibition.

The tobacco business is detrimental to the interests of every other industry. No employee can do work for his employer while giggling in his pocket and lighting a tag; besides tobacco users in practically all lines of work have been proven materially less efficient than abstainers. This loss that the manufacturer has to pay for, has to be covered by the consumer.

The tobacco merchant competes with every other line for the consumer's dollar. Every dollar spent for tobacco cannot be spent by the consumer for any other product. The abolition of the tobacco business would add two or three billion dollars a year to the sales of other products; yes, more for the user would become more healthy, more energetic, more productive, earn more and have more to spend.

The expenditure of two or three billion dollars a year in the production, manufacture and sale of tobacco, a worse than useless product, is economically and morally wrong, and detrimental to every other line of human endeavor. There is not one fact to the support of the tobacco business. It has not a single merit to its credit. Food, clothes and the necessities of life are taken from mothers and children to buy tobacco for a filthy habit. It is promoted and exists on a fabric of lies.

It has no more right to exist than

NEEDS OF STATE MILITARY THEME OF BLACK REPORT

Adjutant General Recommends Building of Two Armories

Springfield, Ill., March 5—(AP)—Only two of the dozen or more proposals for armories made at the present session of the legislature were approved today in a report by Adjutant General Carlos E. Black outlining the necessities and requirements of the military and naval forces of Illinois. These were at Decatur and Cairo.

Decatur Needs One
"A site for an armory was purchased two years ago at Decatur," the report said, "and it is recommended that an appropriation now be made for the building of an armory. This city has two units of the 130th Infantry now housed in two separate buildings. These units have been successfully maintained since 1921. Due to this and the further fact that it has a reservoir of men from which to draw, we believe favorable consideration should be given this project."

"The city of Cairo has successfully maintained an efficient unit of the National Guard for many years. The present unit was organized in 1921 and is composed of high grade young men. Cairo is situated in a strategic point at which troops would be mobilized. Favorable consideration is recommended for a suitable site and armory."

Representatives W. C. Chynoweth of Decatur and Alexander Wilson of Cairo are sponsoring the bills for the armories in their respective cities. Armories have also been proposed for Elgin, Streator, Rockford, Joliet, Urbana and several other cities.

Need Artillery Range
General Black dealt at length with the need for an artillery range in connection with Camp Grant, near Rockford. "The most essential part of the training of any soldier," he said, "is familiarity with the weapon with which he is armed."

"Camp Grant has never afforded opportunity for the proper training of artillery. The organizations of Illinois soldiers who are serving the state are shunted around from pillar to post, to Michigan, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Virginia, any place we may beg for the opportunity to perfect their training. They are denied the privilege of using superior facilities and conveniences."

"The 86th division, which was mobilized and trained at Camp Grant during the war, had three artillery regiments, but not one shot was fired by them during the training period. It is a wonder they were used as replacement troops when they arrived overseas. The securing of an artillery range near enough to Camp Grant so that the division can train as a unit, that Illinois soldiers may be trained in Illinois, and can take their place with the other states, should be made a reality."

General Black pointed out that the land purchased for an artillery range

Root Has Formula for World Court

Geneva, Mar. 5—(AP)—Elihu Root, noted American jurist, who is serving on a special committee for revision of the World Court statutes, conferred with Foreign Minister Briand of France today concerning a formula which Mr. Root has prepared as the basis of an agreement for American adherence to the World Court.

SEEK AND YOU SHALL—

Danville, Ky.—They say a man's best friend is his dog. And James Ashe will cast one vote in favor of that saying. Ashe lived alone, old, man feeble and poverty-stricken. While out walking one day his dog stirred up a rabbit. The rabbit fled to a hollow tree. As he dug around the tree trying to get at the rabbit, he discovered an old kettle, containing 1800 silver dollars.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and Houdaille shock absorbers used on the new Ford.

Though the Ford tires are 30 x 4.50 in size, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel spoke wheels.

Another unusual feature of the new Ford tires is the provision for balancing the tire assembly. Every tire is marked on the sidewall with a red spot to show where the valve stem should be when the tube is inserted. This is just a little thing, but it assures a uniformly high standard of tire performance at all speeds.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent the possibility of premature wear of the tires.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.
